

The Bell Ringer

Montgomery Bell Academy 4001 Harding Rd. Nashville, TN 37205 Vol. 52, Issue 3 December 11, 1996

News

News briefs
page 2

Library renovation
page 3

Opinions

Mid-semester
exam changes
pro and con
page 4

Features

Weenie Bowl results
page 5
X-Files ripoffs
page 5
Cheerleader profiles
page 6

Sports

Cross Country
page 7

Football
page 8
Basketball
page 8

School passes mid-term examination SACS committee completes interim evaluation

by Russell Taber and Arun Anandashan

Two years ago, MBA's classes began before Labor Day for the first time in the school's recent history, much to the chagrin of the faculty and student body. What SACS did this to us?

The answer is simple: SACS (Southern Association of Colleges and Schools). For a school to be accredited by SACS, it must fulfill certain requirements in teacher qualification, length of school year, curriculum, and other areas. Although not everyone at MBA is always receptive to these requirements, the school must meet them to ensure accreditation. For example, SACS requirements for faculty qualifications forced many teachers back into the classroom as students, even though not every teacher was thrilled about turning in homework again.

Dr. Griffith, one of many teachers forced to fulfill new education course requirements, stated that a teacher's strength in his/her subject area is far more important than meeting "facile requirements."

A SACS committee visited the MBA campus from November 3-5 for their five-year interim evaluation to examine the school's progress in implementing the suggestions of the last SACS committee in 1991, and "to produce a helpful report," according to Tim McIntire, the Head of School at Albuquerque Academy and director of the visiting committee.

The committee spent Monday, November 4 visiting classes, individuals,

Patrick Wilson
Montgomery Bell Academy
Nashville, Tennessee

and locations on campus. Mr. McIntire stated that the group discovered a school "well led with high spirit ... and expectations for quality and excellence." On the following day, the report was completed and presented to the MBA community, "enthusiastically endorsing the school's program.

Science Department); and Board of Trustees members have already visited the science facilities of many of the nation's top schools.

Addressing the issue of diversity mentioned in the second and third recommendations, Mr. Gioia said, "It's helpfulness of having faculty of different colors and backgrounds to add in attracting students of different colors and backgrounds.

Perhaps a greater obstacle to diversity is, as Ms. Hensley stated, the perception of "pockets" in the Nashville community that view MBA as a school that does not welcome difference, that does not welcome diversity - a problem. Ms. Hensley admits requires "a well thought-out plan and time" to redress.

As for the developmental potential of MBA, the fourth recommendation referred to, Mr. Gioia agreed with the SACS committee that it is comparable with the potential of top national schools. "MBA," Mr. Gioia said,

"should consider itself a local, regional, and national school" and pursue its goals accordingly. Mr. Gioia further stated, "I think it is impossible to have students from all over the country, I think it is impossible to maybe be as well known in some ranks ... but I think MBA has the focus and the loyalty that the best boarding schools in the country have." According to Mr. Gioia, the Junior School should be enlarged as a part of developing this potential. Some steps have already been taken to improve its programs, especially publications, and further steps, such as additional computers and a separate meeting (continued on page 2)

SACS Checklist

1. The new science facility is very needed and heartily recommended. It should be funded and built.
2. Diversity continues to be an issue on campus among students and faculty. An improved awareness of the needs on campus is an important step as the school makes aggressive efforts to become more diverse.
3. MBA should begin a more aggressive admissions effort in the Nashville community in order to become more culturally and socio-economically diverse in its students and faculty. There is a misleading assumption that the greater the diversity is, the interest in recruiting minority students and of the availability of financial aid.
4. The development potential of the MBA community is comparable with top national schools, and therefore the goals and ambitions of the development efforts should continue to be raised.
5. Adequate on-line technology for student and faculty use should be assured.
6. The school should continue to develop fitness and wellness programs for the MBA community.
7. The continued in-depth study of the TSSAA and alternative plans for competitive varsity competition is essential.
8. There should be continued attention to the problem of climate control in various buildings on campus.
9. As soon as possible, a classroom for each full-time teacher, in which he or she will maintain an office, teach, and help students, should be provided.

one, maybe the most complicated of all of them." He added, "MBA's got to recognize that the world's changed a lot since it started 120 years ago ... That doesn't mean that I'm going to believe in quota systems or affirmative action ... but I'll continue to emphasize that it is imperative for all of us to recognize that we need to look far beyond ourselves if we're going to grow and be better people." Mr. Gioia admitted, however, that he "would probably look more closely at a large number of minority candidates simply because we don't have that many." The Headmaster also acknowl-

NEWS BRIEFS*THE OPEN TAP

Congratulations go out to seniors Matthew Berry, John Buchanan, Clay Jamison, Lee Hampton, Chris Nalbandian, and Brian Stults for being named to MBA's Totomol Honor Society.

NEXT STEP, TAIWAN

On the weekend of Nov. 23/24, MBA students representing Nepal and China invaded the Nashville Convention Center for the Tennessee Model U.N.. The team representing China, which consisted of Thomas Jones, Jonathan Tam, Matt George, and Brian Sturtevant, was named the Best Respondent in International Court, while the Nepal team, made of Payman Kooshanfarid, and Wilson Varsdick, almost won an award for best native garb thanks to Varsdick's willingness to wear a skirt.

BEST FOOT FORWARD

Congratulations to Class of '93 alumnus Andy Ross, who attends Mississippi State University, on being selected to play in the Hula Bowl College All-Star Game.

VARSITY DEBATE

The Varsity debate team has continued its national dominance since the last issue. At the New Trier tournament in Chicago, the teams of Mark Yoppo and Nathan Sabel, Josh Hildreth and Rob Humbrecht, and Samir Idnani and Raja Gaddipati all reached the elimination rounds, with Josa and Rob advancing to the semifinals. Seniors Brian Stults and Michael Risen finished second in the prestigious Greenvill School Round Robin in Texas. At the Homewood, IL, tourney, Risen and Robbie "Maggs" Quinn defeated MILK in the finals round. Josa and Stults reached the semifinal round at the Glenbrook tournament and then placed fourth at the Glenbrooks invitational round robin in Chicago.

J.V. and NOVICE DEBATE

The team of Gaddipati and Idnani continued the MBA tradition of dominating the Glenbrooks J.V. division, reaching the finals round. MBA's novice teams fared no worse, with the team of Cameron Weil and Chad Davidson reaching the semi's round at the Glenbrooks, and winning the novice division at the Homewood tournament. Novice Lincoln-Douglas debater Adam Hill reached the finals at Homewood, and the quarterfinals in J.V. LD, at the Glenbrooks concert.

WHO WAS SPORTING THE BOUFFANT HAIRCUT?

Mark Singer, recent author and long time contributor to The New Yorker, visited assembly and classes last Monday. His recent book, Citizen K., is a non-fiction portrait of the man who accused Dan Quayle of inhaling. His next assignment entails flying to Palm Beach with The Donald and Diana Ross as part of a New Yorker profile of Donald Trump.

Private Edition

Cosmetics • Fragrance • Skin Care

Linda D. Roberts

President

Grace's Plaza

4009 Hillsboro Road Nashville, TN 37215

SACS evaluation (continued)

place, are planned. As for the sixth suggestion, although many administrators are interested in bringing more technology to the entire school, tremendous expense impedes its expansion. There is also a feeling among the administration that the school should not put the acquisition of technology, in Mr. Gots's words, "ahead of the readiness people have to use it."

What MBA students has not complained about room temperatures in Wallace, Carter, or Davis, which are mentioned in the eighth recommendation? Mr. Gots said, "we are doing a study right now on campus concerning the climate issue." Mr. Gots has been pleased with the recent, unusually comfortable temperatures in the Paschall Theater, but understands "we have just got to keep working on that."

The current MBA campus plan, if implemented, would come close to meeting the tenth suggestion of providing a classroom for every teacher. Mr. Gots stated confidently, "for almost every teacher, I think we'll be in that shape very soon." A renovation of the bottom of the gym is essential for improving the fitness programs at MBA, but will only be undertaken upon the completion of a new science building. In the meantime, the mandatory fitness tests should remind students of the importance of exercise, just as the SACS evaluation should remind MBA of its shortcomings and strengths.

Neely Coble Co.

Truck Center:
Used Sales & Parts Dept.
319 Fesslers Lane
Nashville, TN 37210
244-8900

Body Shop
1130 Polk Avenue
Nashville, TN 37210
255-3141

December 11, 1996

News

The Bell Ringer

Library renovation nears completion

Planned grand opening will be after mid-semester exams

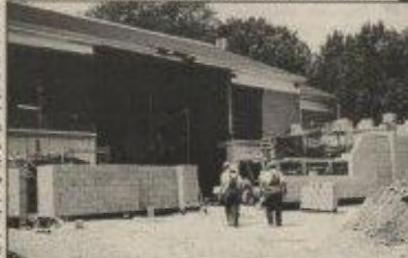

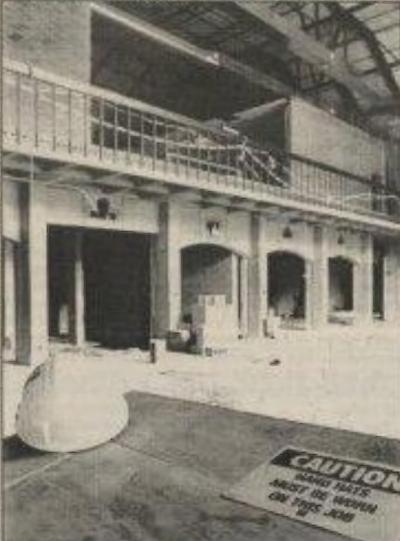

By Stephen Was

By December 22, the structural renovation of the MBA library will finally be complete and, after another month or so, it will be filled with furniture and books and ready for student use. The renovated library promises to have more resources and better technology to meet the students' needs. Mr. Giosa had three objectives for making the library a state-of-the-art facility: that the library become more attractive and inviting to students and faculty; that the building be enlarged; and that the library be updated with the latest technology.

There is definitely reason to be excited about this renovation. Four thousand square feet have been added to the old library and, according to the two librarians, all the furniture in the building will be new. The lower floor of the library will have twelve computer stations with access to the MBA catalog and the Internet. In addition to two glassed student study rooms and a writing room where teachers can take their classes to have writing seminars, the upper floor will consist of a new computer lab to replace the present lab in the Bell Building, a classroom with computers, and a seminar room. The seminar room, say Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Tilley, will hold various club, faculty, and Board of Trustees meetings, as well as replace the old audio-visual room.

The banister of the balcony overlooking the lower floor will be replaced with an all-glass model, in which the names of those who have influenced civilization will be inscribed. The inner walls will be renovated to contain plaques of all the Nobel Prize winners and will be updated each year. A magnificent original clock with the MBA logo on it will also be in the library. The glass in the top of the library will provide more light than before, making it a better environment for studying. Finally, a commemorative plaque containing a poem honoring Mr. Patrick Wilson, the man for whom our library is named, will be on the outside of the library. "Thanks to these renovations, and the generosity of the Wilson family, the library should be a hot spot on campus for years to come."

The list of "Great Individuals" is printed beside this article. The list can be changed, and Mr. Giosa would appreciate your feedback.

- | | |
|------------------------------|------------------------------|
| 1. Aesop | 83. Horace |
| 2. Alexander the Great | 84. Themas Jefferson |
| 3. Susan B. Anthony | 85. Joan of Arc |
| 4. St. Thomas Aquinas | 86. James Joyce |
| 5. Aristotle | 87. Helen Keller |
| 6. Arthur Ashe | 88. John Keats |
| 7. Jane Austen | 89. Martin Luther King, Jr. |
| 8. Johann Sebastian Bach | 90. Abraham Lincoln |
| 9. Francis Bacon | 91. John Locke |
| 10. Clark Gable | 92. Martin Luther |
| 11. Ludwig van Beethoven | 93. Niccolo Machiavelli |
| 12. Louis Braille | 94. Karl Marx |
| 13. George Washington Carver | 95. Herman Melville |
| 14. Miguel de Cervantes | 96. Michelangelo |
| 15. Geoffrey Chaucer | 97. John Stuart Mill |
| 16. Winston Churchill | 98. John Milton |
| 17. Cicero | 99. Michel de Montaigne |
| 18. Christopher Columbus | 100. Anaximenes |
| 19. Confucius | 101. Sir Isaac Newton |
| 20. Joseph Conrad | 102. Ovid |
| 21. Constantine the Great | 103. Jessie Owens |
| 22. Nicholas Copernicus | 104. Louis Pasteur |
| 23. Marie Curie | 105. Petrarch |
| 24. Dante Alighieri | 106. Pablo Picasso |
| 25. Napoleon Bonaparte | 107. Max Planck |
| 26. Charles Darwin | 108. Plato |
| 27. René Descartes | 109. Plautus |
| 28. Alexis de Tocqueville | 110. Rembrandt |
| 29. Fyodor Dostoevsky | 111. Jackie Robinson |
| 30. W.E.B. DuBois | 112. Auguste Rodin |
| 31. Thomas Edison | 113. Theodore Roosevelt |
| 32. Albert Einstein | 114. J.-J. Rousseau |
| 33. Eleanor of Aquitaine | 115. Juria Balk |
| 34. Elizabeth I | 116. Sappho |
| 35. Euclid | 117. Albert Schweitzer |
| 36. William Faulkner | 118. Sequoia |
| 37. Michael Faraday | 119. William Shakespeare |
| 38. Henry Ford | 120. Adam Smith |
| 39. Ann Frank | 121. Socrates |
| 40. Benjamin Franklin | 122. Sophocles |
| 41. Sigmund Freud | 123. Harriet Beecher Stowe |
| 42. Galileo Galilei | 124. Mother Teresa |
| 43. Mahatma Gandhi | 125. Henry David Thoreau |
| 44. Giacomo | 126. Lao Tze |
| 45. Johann von Goethe | 127. Vincent van Gogh |
| 46. Johann Gutenberg | 128. Vergil |
| 47. Voltaire | 129. Jules Verne |
| 48. Georg Hegel | 130. Leonardo da Vinci |
| 49. Henry VIII | 131. George Washington |
| 50. Hippocrates | 132. Frank Lloyd Wright |
| 51. Thomas Hobbes | 133. Orville / Wilbur Wright |
| 52. Homer | 134. William Butler Yeats |

The Bell Ringer

Opinions

December 11, 1996

Should exams be taken before Christmas?

Exams before winter break

Students would do better with different schedule

By Mark Yopp

There has been much talk around school about the exams schedule. It seems no one really cares in what order the exams are given, but there is considerable controversy regarding both the time of day and time of year for the administration of the first semester exams.

Through debate, I know high school students from all over the nation, from Washington to Florida, and I don't know of any other students that take exams after the winter break. The main reason is obvious: students will do better if the exams take place before the winter holidays because the material will be fresher in the students' minds. There is plenty of time for teachers to cover and review the material before the break, and such a shift allows even more time for working in the second semester.

Also, it seems more logical to move the exams to December. Before this year, when MBA began school in the week after Labor Day, it made perfect sense to start exams in January since there was not enough time to include all of the material necessary in the first semester before the break. If MBA's starting day keeps moving to an earlier and earlier time each year, there is no reason not to change the exam dates.

A third and final reason to have exams before the break is that MBA is supposed to be a college preparatory school. The vast majority of colleges and universities schedule their exams before Christmas. MBA fails to fully prepare students for college by placing exams after a long break.

Another proposal I would like to make is the change in exam starting time from 8:00 A.M. to 9:00 A.M. I don't know about the rest of the school, but I think that I would do better with an extra hour of sleep. My freshman year, first semester exams started at 9:00 A.M., and I was much more refreshed and felt I did better than I would have had the exams started at 8:00 A.M. I see no drawbacks to such a change with the exception of the complaint that students would get home an hour later after help sessions. Does that mean that students will study less? The people who are already prepared don't study all night, and the people who "cram" will stay up the whole night anyway. Does such a change really negatively impact anyone?

Thus, I think that the exams should be moved until after Christmas. If the administration has strong objections to that change, then the starting time could at least be an hour later. Students would do better, and MBA would fall more in line with national norms.

The Bell Ringer

Editor-in-Chief

Cortney Edie

News Editor

Ariana Newsome

Opinion Editor

Portia Miller

Sports Editor

Spencer Johnson

Copy Editor

Ariana Newsome

Production Manager

Photography Editor

Layout Editor

Business Manager

Advertising Manager

Layout Staff

Photography Staff

Cartoon & Gag Staff

Art Staff

Editorial Staff

Cartoon & Gag Staff

See Thompson

Ariana Newsome

Robert Ross

Sara Blackford

Beth Morris

Adam Langston

Matthew Berry, Russell Tabor

Ariana Newsome

John Thompson

Joe Montgomery

Joe Montgomery

Alisa Henseler

Priscilla Hartman

Chris Nallison

Ariana Newsome

Claire Nease

Stephen Martin, Andrew McNeely

Cole Roth, David T.L. Stephen Wren

Mrs. Handley

ADVISORY
The Bell Ringer is a newspaper published for and by the students of Montgomery Bell Academy.

Views expressed in The Bell Ringer do not necessarily represent those of the staff, students, faculty, or trustees of the school. The school board is responsible for assigned editorial policies.

The Bell Ringer reserves the right to edit letters to the editor. The letters must be signed, but names will be withheld upon request. The letters may be edited for length.

Our staff of The Bell Ringer prepares all type, headlines, and photographs of Montgomery Bell Academy, MCA Publishing in Nashville. Turnover price of paper

E-mail address: mcphillips@mba.tn.edu

Exams after winter break

Current schedule best for students and faculty

by Dr. Alice Springer

Although I had never been at a school with exams after the winter holidays before I came to MBA, I quickly became a convert to the idea of delaying them until January after one year here. There is a certain attraction to the idea of having them all done before the break at the end of the year, but there are even more compelling reasons for delaying them. The first reason is purely selfish; I like to let summer go on as late as possible in August, and having to finish with exams before Christmas would require beginning earlier in August. Changing the mindset of students and faculty to begin productive work earlier in August would not be impossible, but it would be difficult, since hot weather seems to invite mind-drifting toward leisure activities.

For students, there are special advantages to having exams after the holidays. Students with serious academic difficulties have a unique opportunity to do some intensive preparation for the semester exams. Especially when they have a good review guide and specific suggestions from teachers about material to study and master, they can prepare more thoroughly. Although some may say that students who are in such difficulty probably are not going to change in a week or two, we should afford them the time and opportunity to make a concerted effort to prepare for exams.

Even for students who are not having academic difficulties, there are numerous extracurricular distractions, performances, and projects between Thanksgiving and the winter holidays that take time and attention away from the academic program. Most of these activities are so seasonal that they cannot be rescheduled to some other time to accommodate an exam schedule before the holidays. They are also activities that are important opportunities for our students, especially in the performing arts programs.

In terms of scheduling the presentation of material, it is easier to keep students focused on new material in the period between Thanksgiving and the winter holidays than it would be with something they have already studied. I need to cover as much new material as possible in the first semester so that in the second we can focus on assimilation and proficiency in using what we learned in the first semester. In other subjects, I would assume that there is some of the same concern. In many areas, one hopes that at the end of the year, students have a foundation of knowledge in a subject and, with adequate time, can spend some of it contemplating the meaning of what they have learned. Especially for the Advanced Placement Exams, some subjects require not only thorough assimilation of material but an ability to apply what they have learned to questions of a hypothetical or theoretical nature.

The effect of rescheduling exams would be to minimize their importance. I firmly believe that exams are a valid evaluation instrument to measure what students have assimilated in the course of a semester, and that, as such, the exams should not be trivialized or minimized by throwing them in before the holidays. They merit a special time and place in the year when they do not have to compete for attention and students can give them their due attention.

Along the same lines, exams after the holidays mean that teachers, too, have the time to carefully consider the exams and weigh the performance of the students without the distractions of holiday plans. If students are required to be very focused in their preparation and their performance, teachers should be, also. Exams after the holidays give both students and teachers the latitude to spend the necessary time to deal with exams conscientiously, not hastily in order to get on with other activities.

And finally, I like the exams after the winter holidays because after the exams, in the middle or at the end of January, I have time to reassess where my program is and make some adjustments, if necessary, in terms of the presentation of material. There is a breathing space at the end of January in what is otherwise a long haul from the beginning of the second semester until the spring break.

December 11, 1996

Features

The Bell Ringer

HILLENMEYER MAKES GOOD: GOLF TEAM WINS 49-42

Weenie Bowl Cross Country performance was under par

by Robert "Hoss" Ross

Morgan Hillenmeyer came through with a clutch, last-second touchdown pass from Justin Tatum as the golf team continued its Weenie Bowl domination over the cross-country team. The Thursday, November 14th game provided the golf team's seniors with one last taste of Weenie glory, all the sweeter after last year's game was canceled because of Scott Bowen's fear of "controversy." The initial challenge was issued to assembly this year by cross-country seniors Joe Hills, Russell Taber, and junior Keith Bruno and accepted by golf team senior Morgan Hillenmeyer, who promised a win over David Dean and the other minions of Pruitt. On that Thursday, his word was tested.

The game started out at a furious pace, as Joe Montgomery and James Greek traded touch downs on the first two possessions. On the next drive, a Tatum interception of a cross-country pass set up a score by Thor ("thunder god") Harland. The momentum then shifted to the cross-country team as Joe Montgomery took control of the game, catching three touchdown passes from senior Joe Hills and stopping a golf team drive with a key interception in cross-country territory. From there, the game slowed down as both teams went for the quick kill with a series of "Hall Maries" that all fell incomplete. After coming back to the controlled passing game, both teams rattled off a series of touchdowns as the cross-country team regained the lead 35-28 on a juk-ing scamper by Alex Harwell. The next golf team drive ended just short of a first down, and the cross-country team took the ball in golf territory. From there, however, the momentum of the game took a dramatic shift as a Tatum interception of a Bruno pass set up Nathaniel Beaver's score, which tied the game 35-35. The harriers answered with an 80-yard scoring gallop by Burish on a pass from Phillips, only to have Tatum and the golf team tie the game at 42 on a completion to James Greek. Referees The Beamer and Carden were forced to call for overtime.

The cross-country team got the ball down first, marching to the golf 20 before being stopped when a 4th down pass from Phillips fell through the hands of Bruno. The golf team took the ball, with Tatum completing a quick pass to Greek at midfield, his next pass falling incomplete in the endzone. But on 3rd down and one, Tatum found Morgan Hillenmeyer in a collapsing cross-country secondary all alone in the endzone for the winning touchdown, 49-42. After the game, Weenie Bowl MVP Tatum assessed the performance of his team as "very bad in the first half, but we came out in the second half ready to play, and dominated near the end." Cross-country sophomore draft-day bust David Dean (who finished the day with no receptions, little playing time, and a fleshplate) promised that "next year, we'll crush them." We'll have to wait until next year to find out whether Dean is as true to his word as Morgan was.

X-Files Ripoffs and Scott Baio

The Hoss spends some time on the couch

by Robert Ross

T.V. network executives are a dumb bunch. Armed with doctorates in business administration or economics from Harvard or Yale or even Tufts-McConnell (that's a university, right?), they spend their whole lives trying to force-feed the public educational shows and T.V. movies starring John Blitzen and Tori Spelling as middle-aged parents whose only son is taken away by his sadistic grandfather (played by Andy Griffith) to a satanic cult ruled by Diana Amber (lessen), where the doomsday virus created by Brian Austin Green resides. Now, the Hoss, will expose their newest scheme to reduce Americans to the level of archaeobacteria. Beware, viewing public, of these shows:

Dark Skies: Worst this show has aliens, government conspiracies, the cold war, and Area 51 - it must be good. Right? Wrong. This show has leftover Alien props, bad Beatles impersonators, and a "non-threatening guy" in the lead. I hate non-threatening guys. The main bad guy has no eye - but no one seems to notice. The girl, however, is pretty good looking.

The Pretender: This is a lousy program, but definitely worth watching, because it has, quite possibly, the best-looking woman with the most form-fitting clothes on network T.V. The rest of the show is mediocre. Some guy with the ability to assume any persona he chooses escapes from a research facility and decides to do...good? He can be anything he wants to be, and he doesn't use it to become rich, powerful, or...what? What does he want? What are his desires? Maybe he's "pretending" to be someone else?

The Prodigy: This show I hate. An FBI agent has the ability to visualize a crime (paging Millennium!) so she solves a lot of crimes. The one episode I saw had a remit of The Police's "I'll Be Watching You" done by a fictional Cyndi Lauper clone. It all went downhill from there.

That's all from Hoss in this issue, but remember - if a show has Scott Baio or a "non-threatening guy" in it, it's not worth watching.

Video Game Tournament

Saturday, December 14, 2:00 PM

5 dollars per person
Seniors with their little brothers are 5 dollars a pair

Super Mario Cart, Techmo Bowl, College Football

Used CD Sale → Same day

make three for yourself and four dollars for the Senior Class

bring your used CD's and video game registration money to lunch
this week

The Bell Ringer

Features

December 11, 1996

Who are those pretty faces at pep rallies?

Emily Baker
10th grade
16 yrs. old
Attends Harpeth Hall
3 years as a cheerleader
Football cheerleader
Favorite cheer: Icky, Icky

Miley Greathouse
11th grade
16 yrs. old
Attends Harpeth Hall
2 years as a cheerleader
Basketball cheerleader
Favorite cheer: none

Bailey Johnson
11th grade
16 yrs. old
Attends Harpeth Hall
4 years as a cheerleader
Basketball and Football
cheerleader
Favorite cheer: Icky, Icky

Jamie Dunn
10th grade
16 yrs. old
Attends Harpeth Hall
1 year as a cheerleader
Football cheerleader
Favorite cheer: Icky, Icky

Brandy Hollingsworth
12th grade
17 yrs. old
Attends Harpeth Hall
8 years as a cheerleader
Basketball and Football
cheerleader
Favorite cheer: Icky, Icky

Mindy Verrier
10th grade
16 yrs. old
Attends Harpeth Hall
1 year as a cheerleader
Basketball and Football
cheerleader
Favorite cheer: Icky, Icky

Veve Broadbent
12th grade
17 yrs. old
Attends Harpeth Hall
6 years as a cheerleader
Basketball and Football
cheerleader
Favorite cheer: Icky, Icky

Maggie Holt
10th grade
16 yrs. old
Attends Harpeth Hall
2 years as a cheerleader
Football cheerleader
Favorite cheer: We're the best

Jennifer Warren
12th grade
18 yrs. old
Attends Saint Cecilia
2 years as a cheerleader
Basketball cheerleader
Favorite cheer: none

Erin Gaines
11th grade
16 yrs. old
Attends St. Cecilia
3 years as a cheerleader
Basketball and Football
cheerleader
Favorite cheer: We don't mess

Alison Hayes
11th grade
16 yrs. old
Attends Harpeth Hall
2 years as a cheerleader
Basketball cheerleader
Favorite cheer: Icky, Icky

Elizabeth White
11th grade
16 yrs. old
Attends Harpeth Hall
5 years as a cheerleader
Basketball and Football
cheerleader
Favorite cheer: Icky, Icky

Cattie Cowan
11th grade
17 yrs. old
Attends Harpeth Hall
5 years as a cheerleader
Football and Basketball
cheerleader
Favorite cheer: We don't mess

Nadine Smith
12th grade
17 yrs. old
Attends Harpeth Hall
5 years as a cheerleader
Basketball and Football
cheerleader
Favorite cheer: Icky, Icky

Shelly Whitley
12th grade
18 yrs. old
Attends St. Cecilia
3 years as a cheerleader
Basketball and Football
cheerleader
Favorite cheer: Icky, Icky

December 11, 1996

Sports

The Bell Ringer

Cross Country beats Ryan at State meet

Team pulls together for upset of region champ

by Stephen Marler

Lying in hiding for most of the year with no Metro or Region wins in the Varsity division, the MBA cross country team had a down year until the State meet. The team placed 3rd behind Ryan and Overton in terms of its regular season dual meet record and got 3rd in the Metro race.

Despite the poor start, MBA fought its way to a 2nd place finish in region behind Ryan and barely ahead of McGavock. Russell Taber, Peter Chen, Adrian Cameron, David Dean, Hunter Verner, and William Lea, who came in 7th, led the team in the Varsity race. Although four Big Red runners; Adam Johnson, Patrick Wall, Mark Burish, and individual winner John Hart, finished in the Top 10, Ryan defeated MBA in the JV region.

At the state meet, MBA came in sixth, beating all other mid-state teams. The team had an excellent race, with four runners setting personal records. Taber managed to come in 20th, ahead of all of Ryan's runners, while Dean finished 38th and Lea ended in 46th place. Dean, Lea, and Taber were all named to the All-Metro First Team.

The Cross Country team's prospects for next season look good because while most other area teams will lose many of their best runners, only one of MBA's top seven, Taber, will graduate. The experience and ability of returning starters should give the Big Red an edge in the competition for a region title.

Russell Taber leads William Lea and the rest of the cross country team to a sixth place finish ahead of Ryan at the state meet.

Hunter Verner and Colin Boddy work the crowd at the Lexington Catholic Invitational.

A commitment to tradition, honor and values builds communities.

We at Belle Meade Motorcar wish to express support for MBA students, faculty, and families. The striving for excellence in academics, as well as social and moral values, encourages the growth of responsible, honorable, and inspired citizens.

"Next in importance to freedom and justice is education, without which neither justice nor freedom can be permanently maintained."

-James A. Garfield

5210 Harding Road ■ Nashville, TN 37205 ■ 615-352-0920

MICHAEL Renee'

Lifestyle Portraiture
Salutes

John Buchanan

John is the Student Council President, a member of Totomoi and the Mock Trial team, a varsity baseball player, and a soup kitchen volunteer

The Bell Ringer

Sports

December 11, 1996

MBA postseason ends in double overtime

State champs receive biggest scare in two years

by Matthew Berry

After clutching the first 6-5A region crown in school history, MBA rolled into the playoffs. In the first round, the McGavock Raiders invaded Tommy Owen field. MBA quickly scored on its first possession and then recovered an onside kick. The McGavock team countered with two goals of its own, but MBA's first team defense didn't allow another point for the rest of the game. The Big Red offense continued to roll, allowing MBA to win 58-28.

In the second round, MBA played the Millington Trojans. Millington scored first, but during MBA's next possession, the Big Red offensive line took control and shaved the Trojans off the ball while Mad Max Fuller scampered unopposed for 60 yards. By halftime, MBA scored again but led only 13-6 because of a missed extra point. Millington struck first in the second half, giving the Trojans the lead but the Big Red did not allow the Trojans to score for the rest of the half. The Big Red offense then continued to click, scoring 21 unanswered points. Even though the game had been close until the middle of the 2nd quarter, the game ended as a resounding MBA win, 35-14.

In a much anticipated rematch of the previous year's semi-finals, Brentwood Academy came to Tommy Owen Stadium for the third round of the TSSAA playoffs. MBA received the kickoff and proceeded to march 70 yards, but was held to a fieldgoal by the tenacious BA defense. The game remained scoreless for the rest of the first quarter as MBA and BA traded turnovers. BA scored the only points of the second quarter and went into halftime with a 7-3 lead. After stopping MBA on the opening possession of the third quarter, BA proceeded to add a fieldgoal to its 7-3 lead. Both teams' defenses held the offenses in check until the fourth quarter when the Big Red offense got back on track. MBA drove to inside the BA ten, but suffered an interception in the end zone. MBA's defense then stepped up, shutting down the Eagle attack for the rest of the fourth quarter, including a close fourth down conversion. After getting the ball back with 31 seconds left, MBA drove deep into BA territory and tied the game on a diving touchdown reception by Paul Russell, sending the MBA crowd into massive celebration. At the end of regulation time, the game was tied at 10-10. BA scored first in overtime, racking up seven points. On third and five of MBA's possession, Max Fuller hit Will Bartholomew to send the game into a second overtime. MBA was held to a field goal, while the Eagles made a touchdown run, ending MBA's promising season by a score of 23-20.

Will Bartholomew carried the ball over and through Millington's seemingly big defense with the help of our tough offensive line.

Michael Holden catches and converts for another Big Red first down against McGavock.

Blake Sloan scrambles against BA.

Basketball shoots for District title, yet falters in early season competition

Big Red goes one and three despite size, strength, and experience

by Oscar Booker and Russell Tuber

Coming off last year's disappointing season in which the team won only half of its games, the '96-'97 MBA basketball team is looking forward to a great season. The loss of only three seniors from last year's squad and an entire summer of conditioning drills make prospects good for a strong showing this year.

The season started out on a strong note when senior Mike Godwin's 19 points, solid play in the post by junior Whit Smith, and a clutch free throw shot by junior Omari Booker in the last 30 seconds sealed a victory over Stratford in the first home game of the season. The Big Red's next outing resulted in a loss to Lavergne, 70-69, in which Mike Godwin led all scorers with 34 points. In the next game against Pearl-Cohn, a strong start by Whit Smith soon faded into a 63-47 loss. In MBA's second home game, the Burros invaded Brownlee O. Curry Gym on November 26. After a scoreless first four minutes, each team grappled for the upper hand. Hillsboro eventually built up a small lead by halftime which expanded in the second half. Despite a late rally in which Stephen Marler drove the lane for a three-point play, Hillsboro held on to their lead for the victory.

Many players have contributed to the Big Red's cause. Seniors Clay Hamblen and Will Connely have played solidly, while junior Gene Guyer is shooting fifty percent from three-point land. Senior Michael Godwin continues to stand out in terms of ball handling and scoring. Football players Max Fuller, John Ozier, and Blake Sloan look to add another dimension to the Big Red backcourt. Whites Creek and Pearl Cohn appear to be MBA's biggest challenges for the district title. MBA hopes to compete for the District 11 AAA title with the help of a packed-endorse student section providing a little free throw defense.